ORGANIZATION

The mission of BOSS is to help homeless, poor, and disabled people achieve health and self-sufficiency, and to fight against the root causes of poverty and homelessness. The organization was founded in 1971 by a group of volunteers from the Hillel Streetwork Project in Berkeley who responded to the needs of mentally ill individuals being released to the streets by state hospital closures. Today, BOSS develops solutions to mass homelessness, mass incarceration, and community violence and is dedicated to the inclusion of people marginalized by addiction, trauma, criminality, incarceration, poverty, racism, sexism, homelessness and violence with an intentional focus on four areas of service with Housing Security, Criminal Justice Reentry, Neighborhood Safety, and Social Justice Programs and services. BOSS works one-on-one with each family and each individual to help them achieve stable income, permanent affordable housing, and lasting wellness.

POSITION DESCRIPTION

Under the supervision of the Program Manager the Case Manager is responsible for facilitating pathways for community reintegration for those who are on the street or have been impacted by violence. This is a critical role that works with clinicians and other staff, to help in-custody, formerly incarcerated, homeless or at-risk individuals regain stability and improve their lives. Working with individuals from a person-centered, trauma-informed care approach using motivational interviewing techniques, you'll perform intake interviews and assess clients in order to create transition plans, treatment, and care plans, and provide wrap-around case management services. This role requires candidates to combine compassion and patience with an understanding of how to meet the immediate needs of each individual to help each person meet their goals. This role works onsite, as part of BOSS Centers of Excellence: Training, Education & Housing Center.

- Establishes treatment programs by setting schedules and routines; coordinating services being provided; and arranging resources, including transportation and escort.
- Monitors cases by verifying clients' attendance; observing and evaluating treatments and responses; advocating for needed services and entitlements; obtaining additional resources; intervening in crisis; and providing personal support.
- Maintains clients' records by reviewing case notes; and logging events and progress.
- Communicates clients' progress by conducting weekly interdisciplinary meetings and evaluations; disseminating results and obstacles to therapeutic team and family; and identifying treatment influences.
- Prepares clients' discharge by reviewing and amplifying discharge plans; coordinating discharge and post-discharge requirements; orienting and training family members; and providing resources.
- Connect clients with short and long-term support services such as housing assistance, public transportation vouchers, emergency food gift cards, and personal grooming and hygiene products;
 - Assist clients in applying for public benefits;
 - Link clients to primary care services and other health care services;
 - In some cases provide transition medication management support;
 - Reduce hospitalization, and incarceration, and assist clients in reintegration back into the community.
- Improves staff competence by providing educational resources; balancing work requirements with learning opportunities; and evaluating the application of learning to changes in treatment results.
- Improves treatment results by studying, evaluating, and redesigning processes; implementing changes; and rewriting policies and procedures.
- Meets budget by monitoring expenses; and implementing cost-saving actions.
- Prepares reports by collecting, analyzing, and summarizing treatment and results data and trends; compiling statistics; completing grant and subsidy applications.
- Updates job knowledge by participating in educational opportunities; reading professional publications; maintaining personal networks; and participating in professional organizations.
- Enhances department and organization reputation by accepting ownership for accomplishing new and different requests; and exploring opportunities to add value to job accomplishments.
